Dear Honored Students, Family, Friends and Colleagues:

Slippery Rock University exists for the purpose of helping students successfully fulfill their academic and leadership aspirations. The Academic Honors and Student Leadership Convocation is our opportunity to celebrate each student’s achievements and their progress toward realizing their dreams. This event kicks off SRU’s “Celebration of Excellence,” a variety of events and activities in the coming weeks highlighting student achievement.

SRU welcomes you to this event and the opportunity to recognize our students’ hard work, service-learning contributions, athletic excellence, extracurricular leadership and academic achievements. We will also celebrate the accomplishments of a select group from the University family whose excellence in teaching and academic advising has contributed to students’ academic experience.

Thank you for sharing your time with the SRU community. Undoubtedly, the encouragement you have provided to your student being honored today has supported their personal and professional development. Please know it has been our privilege to share this journey with each student and with you.

Thank you for putting your confidence in SRU where students really “experience the difference.”

Philip Way, provost and vice president for academic and student affairs, was appointed interim president of Slippery Rock University by the Board of Governors of Pennsylvania’s State System of Higher Education July 21, 2017.

Way assumed the duties of interim president following the retirement of Cheryl Norton, who had served as SRU’s president since June 2012. He will serve as interim president at the University until the successful conclusion of the search for a permanent president.

Way was named provost and vice president for academic affairs at SRU in February 2013. In that role, he has been responsible for much of the University’s strategic planning efforts, chairing the University Strategic Planning Committee and authoring the strategic sections of the University’s annual action plans for the State System. He also worked with Norton to realign departments and colleges as part of a restructuring of the University and has had a variety of other administrative responsibilities, including in the areas of budgeting, curricular and pedagogical enhancement, diversity and inclusion, fundraising, enrollment management and student success.

“I am deeply humbled and honored to be asked to serve as the interim president for the University,” said Way. “SRU has made great strides under the leadership of President Norton and the combined efforts of faculty, staff and administrators. I plan to continue to advance the University with the help of all stakeholders and create a seamless transition for our next president.”

Prior to coming to SRU, Way was associate provost for undergraduate programs for more than six years at the University of Alabama at Birmingham. He also served as senior associate dean of arts and sciences for one year while at UAB. He spent more than 20 years at the University of Cincinnati, mostly as a faculty member in the Department of Economics, where he began as an assistant professor. While at Cincinnati, he also served as director of graduate studies within the Center for Organizational Leadership and director of the University Honors Scholars Program. He began his academic career as a research assistant at Nuffield College of Oxford University in England.

Way has a bachelor’s degree in economics from Cambridge University, and earned both a master’s degree in industrial relations and a doctoral degree in industrial and business studies from the University of Warwick. He also served as a visiting fellow at both Harvard University and the University of South Wales in Sydney, Australia.
President’s Award for Excellence in Teaching
Jonathan Helmick
Assistant Professor of Music
College of Liberal Arts

An “excellent educator” who is “truly one of the best things that has happened to Slippery Rock University.”

Those are the words two students used to describe Jonathan Helmick, assistant professor of music at Slippery Rock University and the recipient of the 2018 President’s Award for Excellence in Teaching.

This award honors a faculty member whose primary responsibility is teaching. Those nominated must demonstrate an exemplary commitment to teaching and student learning and must maintain a classroom that promotes high student engagement while pursuing scholarly growth that enhances teaching.

In informing Helmick of his selection as this year’s awardee, SRU Interim President Philip Way wrote, “I commend you on your accomplishments as an outstanding teacher and am proud that you are a member of our faculty. This decision was based on many factors, including your commitment to teaching beyond contractual obligations, a participatory and engaging pedagogy, developing and using innovative classroom practices and your commitment to scholarly growth.”

Helmick’s nomination received overwhelming support from students.

“As a senior education major, it should be noted that I aspire to be like Dr. Helmick in my own teaching because of the respect and admiration I have for him as an educator and mentor,” said Sean Mitchell.

“Never have I before gotten to know a professor who works as hard as Dr. Helmick, nor have I met a busier, more skilled or more caring professor in my four years at SRU. He is a professor who displays exceptional commitment to his teaching, to his students and to the furthering of his own knowledge.

“As an educator, I have never met a professor as committed to their work or their students as Dr. Helmick. Whether it’s in the way he instructs classes themselves or in the way he communicates with his students outside the classroom, Dr. Helmick shows at any given moment just how much he is emotionally committed to the Music Department at SRU and the students within it.”

For Helmick, his educational mission at SRU is one of creating opportunity beyond vocational training.

“(Our mission) is based on the axiom that (teachers) have a responsibility to raise ourselves to a standard and grow so that our own students may see farther on the horizon than we (do),” said Helmick.

“Reflecting on teaching is a critical component of effective teaching. It includes reviewing teaching within the classroom and the structure of the program to ensure that the degree offerings remain current, cutting-edge and relevant to student needs and characteristics.

“For the past two years, job-placement rates for graduates in the music education program have been 100 percent. This is due in large part to a team effort where we have engaged in difficult reflection on the ‘traditional’ offerings within the department and the demands of a 21st century profession. After surveying alumni of the program, there have been numerous areas that we have flagged for improvement, some that will necessitate curricular changes in order to better serve our students.”

Curriculum isn’t the only change that Helmick monitors. The culture in the classroom plays just as important a role and requires the same mindful observation.

“His goal is to make us better and go further in our futures no matter what our future entails,” said Katelyn Schlack, a junior early childhood education/special education major from Beaver. “He helps us to be better leaders, musicians and all around better, more positive people.

“He helps us learn new things and helps us to get our lives together and be able to push forward when things get tough. Without him, I don’t know where we would be and I don’t know where we would go, but right now all I can do is thank him for all that he has helped us achieve and all that he has planned for our future and his.”

Helmick earned bachelor’s degrees in business and organizational communications and music education from the University of Akron; a master’s degree in music performance from UA; and a doctoral degree in performance and pedagogy-conducting from the University of Southern Mississippi.

Before arriving at SRU, Helmick served as the director of bands and low brass instructor at Jones County Junior College in Ellisville, Mississippi, and as the assistant director of bands at Oak Grove Public Schools in Hattiesburg, Mississippi.

He is a member of The College Band Director’s National Association; the World Association of School Bands and Ensembles; Pi Kappa Lambda Music Honorary Society; Mississippi Junior and Community Colleges Band Association; National Association for Music Education; The National Band Association; Tau Beta Sigma, Kappa Kappa Psi; The Mississippi Bandmaster Association; and the Pennsylvania Music Educators Association.

Slippery Rock University is pleased and proud to present Jonathan Helmick with this year’s President’s Award for Excellence in Teaching.
President's Award for Outstanding Academic Advising

Bruce Boliver
Assistant Professor of Hospitality, Event Management and Tourism
College of Business

Bruce Boliver, assistant professor of Hospitality, Event Management and Tourism in Slippery Rock University’s College of Business, is being honored for his dedication and outstanding service to students with this year’s President’s Award for Outstanding Academic Advising.

Boliver, who joined SRU in 1977, is the chair of the Hospitality, Event Management and Tourism Department.

He also serves as the department’s internship coordinator and has supervised more than 1,500 interns. During his time at SRU, Boliver has also served as chair of the PREE Department (15 years), associate athletic director (five years), intramural director (nine years) and assistant football coach (14 years).

Boliver currently serves on the board of directors of the Resort & Commercial Recreation Association of which he has been a member for the last decade, as well as having served two terms as the organization’s president. He also served on the board of the Grove City YMCA for 18 years.

In announcing the award, SRU Interim President Philip Way told Boliver, “You have gone above and beyond to dedicate the time to make sure every student receives the assistance they need to be successful at Slippery Rock University and in the future.”

“The decision to award you this year’s honor comes as a result of the enthusiastically strong recommendations from several of the students you have advised. It is obvious from that show of support, the difference you have made in their academic and personal lives.”

“My advising philosophy is simple,” said Boliver. “My goal is to enhance the academic and professional career of each of my 85-plus advisees, one person at a time.

“When advising, I share several career opportunities or choices within the major, then the knowledge and skills necessary to achieve those choices. I also share minors and/or certificates that are available to support each student. Each semester I give recommendations for liberal studies and major courses that are appropriate for the class level and academic challenge of each student. I also prepare a two-, three- and four-year handwritten course plans, so each of my advisees understands the entire academic picture in front of them, and the financial costs these years will incur. While this is intensive and time consuming, I still find time to discuss individual career goals and objectives, as well as finding out about each student individually, where they reside, their interest, hobbies and family involvement.

“The better I know an advisee, the easier it is to recommend internship sites and supervisors. In most cases, this practical experience leads to a full time position for the students. A career choice is a very important decision that cannot be taken lightly, and that is why each student needs access to the knowledge and skills of a major, before investing thousands of dollars into studying a specific career field.”

The approach Boliver takes is vividly evident to his students.

“(He) has truly changed my life,” said Caroline Caridi, a senior resort, recreation and hospitality management major from Allison Park. “When I came to SRU four years ago, I struggled to find my place. I struggled to find a solid friend group both in and out of my major, I struggled with being away from my family and I struggled with finding my passion within my chosen major at the time, psychology.

“Before I met (Boliver), I strongly considered leaving the University and transferring elsewhere. As a last ditch effort, I decided to look into other majors and found resort, recreation and hospitality management. I located (Boliver’s) email address and asked if he would be available to meet with me. We figured out a time and the rest is history.

“I was inspired by his eagerness for my future, especially since we had just met, but I suddenly felt reassured that I had found my niche. I also felt relieved that I had finally found someone who would be on my side and someone who was genuinely excited for me to succeed. Before leaving his office, I was convinced that he was the only light in the darkness that I was stuck in at the time.

“Since changing my major, I have never looked back, I have never questioned whether I made the right decision and I have never met a more influential person than my adviser and professor, Bruce Boliver.

“Not only is he incredibly passionate and knowledgeable about the industry, he is incredibly passionate about his students and SRU.

“He has contributed to my personal success by being excited for me, challenging me to be a better person and student, and nominated me for a scholarship that I was fortunate enough to receive last semester.

“He has transformed my experience at SRU and introduced me to a new world where I have found my true passion and the best version of me that I never thought possible.

“He is one of the greatest individuals I have had the pleasure of meeting in my entire life. I cannot think of a more deserving candidate for this award. Words cannot describe my gratitude and appreciation for Bruce Boliver. SRU is a better place because of this man. He deserves the opportunity to be recognized for his commitment and hard work.”

Boliver earned a bachelor’s degree in health, physical education and recreation; and a master’s degree in health and physical education from the former Slippery Rock State College.
Grascen Shidemantle, a biology major from Slippery Rock University, is Slippery Rock University's nominee for the 2018 Syed Ali-Zaidi Award presented by Pennsylvania's State System of Higher Education board of governors.

Shidemantle's nomination followed rigorous internal procedures that included nominations from across the University's academic community.

Shidemantle will graduate in May with a bachelor's degree in biology and a minor in Spanish. She plans to attend graduate school in the fall route to pursuing a Ph.D. in biology.

An active member of the University's Honors Program, Shidemantle has served as the program's executive board president while immersing herself in academics, research, international study and opportunities.

She has earned the Norton Undergraduate Research Scholarship; the George Smith Research Grant; the Student Research, Scholarship and Creative Activities Grant; and the Summer Undergraduate Research Experience. Shidemantle has also been awarded an impressive eight scholarships during her undergraduate career, including the Watson Scholarship; the SRU Honors Scholarship; the Biology Honors Scholarship; the James Kell Scholarship; the Tvrzik Scholarship; the John P. Phillips Scholarship; the Coen Family Foundation Scholarship; and the Lynne Ernes Women in Science Scholarship.

Shidemantle was also named the 2017 Commonwealth of Pennsylvania University Biologists Outstanding Research Student. The CPUB provides a forum for undergraduate and graduate students for the presentation of their research. The award is open to any first- or second-semester senior in biology, biology education, biochemistry, life science or natural sciences; and is based on academic achievement, research within the Biology Department and involvement in the department, community and/or university.

She is an active member of Beta Beta Beta, the national biology honor society; a member of the SRU Green Fund Grant Advisory Board, which reviews grant proposals for sustainability projects in amounts up to $20,000; and a member of The Awesome Spirit of Wildlife, a nonprofit organization that rescues and rehabilitates neglected exotic pets.

In the lab, Shidemantle has worked closely with Paul Falso, assistant professor of biology, studying the sublethal effects of pesticide exposure on larval amphibians. As a result of their work, she has received six undergraduate research grants, presented findings at three conferences and had the opportunity to mentor two other undergraduate research students. Earlier this year, she and Falso presented their findings at the Society for Integrative and Comparative Biology conference in San Francisco.

Ali-Zaidi nominees must demonstrate outstanding academic performance; be recognized by members of the University faculty; participate in extra/co-curricular activities; and submit an essay addressing how their university has prepared them for the next step in their career. The award, given annually to a graduate of one of the 14 State System universities, was created by Syed Ali-Zaidi, a charter member of the State System board of governors in honor of his grandfather Mir Wilayat Hussain.
Matthew Heffelfinger, an exercise science major from Emmaus, has been selected as today’s Academic Honors and Student Leadership Convocation speaker. Heffelfinger, who will graduate in May, has a 4.0 grade point average. He has been named one of Slippery Rock University’s Top 20 Presidential Scholars three times; and is the recipient of a variety of scholarships, including: Dr. Bob Murray Endowed Scholarship for Exercise Science (spring 2015); Honors Program Student Scholarship (fall 2015); Highmark Healthcare Scholarship (spring 2016); and APSCUF Faculty Scholarship (spring 2017).

A student researcher, Heffelfinger has worked alongside Qi Chen, assistant professor of chemistry, to design and synthesize L-Neplanocin analogues as antiviral agents. In doing so, the pair have explored, modified and designed organic/synthetic pathways regarding nucleoside analogues and their drug action mechanisms. They have presented their research at the SRU Symposium for Student Research (March 2017) and the National Honors Collegiate Conference in Atlanta (November 2017).

Heffelfinger, an Honors Program student, is widely involved on campus with a variety of extracurricular activities, including: Pre-Med Club where he organized and managed fundraising for the club’s St. Jude “Up ‘til 2” team and served as a mentor to guide younger students through the undergraduate and medical application process; has traveled to Antigua and Barbuda, West Indies, to experience the challenges of health care in the Caribbean; and serves as a senator on the Slippery Rock Student Government Association.

He has years of volunteer experience with the Institute for Hand & Upper Extremity Rehabilitation in Allentown, where he developed a 160-exercise Home Therapy Program, which is customizable and prescribed to patients by registered/licensed occupational therapists. He has volunteered at Byrd Sports Performance & CoreXCell Sports Training where he supervised youth sport training programs to ensure safe and effective exercise training. He was a pediatric rehabilitation volunteer with St. Luke’s Health Network in Bethlehem where he assisted in an outpatient, pediatric rehabilitation facility for motor, speech and miscellaneous therapies.

On campus, Heffelfinger has worked as a student teaching assistant in the Department of Chemistry and as an academic tutor at Bailey Library, specializing in biology, chemistry and exercise science courses, while teaching other students about time management, teamwork and study habit skills.

Other nominees for the speaker honor were Taylor Carson, a communication: digital media production major from Mercer; Erin Dempsey, a history major from Mansfield; and Paige Rickey, an early childhood education major from Whiteford, Maryland.

ALMA MATER

I
Where the Slippery Rock Creek wanders
With her sparkling falls,
There in stately grace and beauty,
Stand old S.R. halls.

CHORUS
Sing her praises, loud resounding,
Speed them on their way,
We’ll be true to thee, O, S.R.
True for aye and aye.

II
All thy halls the day in dying
Crowns with golden light,
And the morn with waking splendor
Greets thee in thy might.
(Chorus)

III
Long may you, our Alma Mater,
Shed your light abroad,
As your loyal sons and daughters
Live for you and God.
(Chorus)
