

I am The ROCK

John Snyder

Job: Co-director, Office of Career Services.

Joined: August 1988.

Background: Before leaving Ohio and joining career services in 1988, I served two years as a career counselor at Baldwin-Wallace College, a year as a school counselor at Mentor High School and six years as an English teacher and coach at Lexington and Mansfield Madison South school districts.

Interests: Sports, public speaking, music, friends and family. And, of course, my life revolves around Praxis – the teacher licensure exam.

Last book read: 'Blood and Thunder: an Epic of the American West' by Hampton Sides.

Why I work at The Rock: Because of the students, the faculty and the staff. In my 22 years here, I have worked with remarkable, talented, caring and kind individuals. My job is extremely rewarding assisting students in their transition from here to graduate school or professional employment. The faculty and staff work well together without artificial barriers impeding the service we provide for students, alumni and community members. I will always treasure the professional and personal relationships I have established with such a variety of people over the years.
