WHAT CAN I DO WITH A MODERN LANGUAGES AND CULTURES DEGREE?

The Modern Languages and Cultures Department at Slippery Rock University prepares students for the challenges of an increasingly multilingual and interconnected world. Our main goal is to enable the acquisition of world languages and cultural knowledge so that our students respect diversity and are able to succeed professionally in a global society.

Knowing more than one language gives students a competitive edge in the job market and provides personal enrichment by connecting the individual to the worldwide community. Graduates are prepared for professions in a variety of fields, including translation, social work, health care, education, business, law, criminology, tourism, English-language learner and many more. Thus, graduates also look forward to international career options.

MODERN LANGUAGES AND CULTURES AT SRU

Through the curriculum, students will acquire knowledge of different languages and cultures in a variety of languages. Students interested in Spanish or French can choose from two different majors. Our Bachelor of Arts in Spanish and French concentrate in the acquisition of different language skills and cultures. Our Bachelor of Arts in Professional Spanish and French incorporate high-impact practices, active learning and relevant interdisciplinary collaboration into a four-year course of study.

Our minors in Latin American, Middle Eastern and Japanese studies offer an interdisciplinary curriculum combining language and culture courses with classes from other departments. Our certificate in TESOL and Master of Arts TESOL programs prepare undergraduate and graduate students for the challenges of teaching English as a new language to non-native speakers. TESOL graduates will be prepared to work in dynamic and pivotal roles by providing adult ELL instruction in higher education, community literacy and multicultural global settings as well as the TESOL publishing industry.

WHY CHOOSE MODERN LANGUAGES AND CULTURES AT SRU?

1. Foreign language advantage: More and more businesses work closely with companies in other countries and need workers who can communicate in different languages and understand other cultures. No matter what career you choose, if you’ve learned a second language, you’ll have a real advantage.

2. Extracurricular activities: Students have the opportunity of practicing their target language outside the classroom through different activities including language clubs and study abroad programs to Spain, Costa Rica, Mexico, France and Japan to further enhance skills.

3. Small class sizes: Language and culture classes are capped at 30 students, providing students a more individualized classroom experience.

4. Experienced faculty: Students will be taught by native language faculty members who bring real-life examples, research and experience to enhance the learning experience.

5. Support and guidance: Every undergraduate is assigned an academic adviser to guide them through their program of study and help them make decisions about educational and career goals.

ALUMNI SPOTLIGHT
Abigail Benninger - Double major Resort, Recreation, and Hospitality Management and Professional French, ’17
“I like the Professional French major because I am able to take it as a secondary major without having any conflicts with my first major schedule. It also allowed me to spend a semester in France, which makes me more marketable to potential employers.”

Rachel Good – Double major Professional Spanish and Public Health, ’16
“I declared the Professional Spanish major because I knew I wanted to use Spanish in my future and work with Hispanic populations in Public Health. I love the major because it allows me to learn more about my field (Public Health) in another language. People always say that knowing another language will help you find jobs, but knowing another language that is actually specific to my field is going to be an even greater benefit.”

Katie L. Snedeker – French, ’05
“I can honestly say that without such a caring and hardworking language department, I would not be where I am today: living and working in France, having the time of my life. The department provided me with many experiences, both on campus and off, that I will never forget.”
