ABOUT THE PROGRAM
Slippery Rock University’s Doctorate in Special Education prepares educators and human service agency workers for leadership positions in the field of Special Education. In the United States today, there is a shortage of qualified school administrators with expertise in special education, a shortage of qualified candidates for positions in special education teacher preparation programs in colleges and universities, and a shortage of leaders to manage human service agencies focused on helping children and adults with disabilities in community settings. The SRU Special Education Doctoral Program is conveniently designed to begin addressing these shortages and prepare tomorrow’s leaders in special education.

Earn a doctorate in special education from one of the oldest and most respected Special Education Departments in the United States. Slippery Rock University began preparing special educators in 1961 and has been viewed as a leader in the field for over five decades. Faculty members are scholars in the field with the knowledge and practical experience to help develop tomorrow’s leaders in special education. Our progressive online programs have received national attention and acclaim being named as one of the top 25 online programs in the nation by Best Colleges Online since 2013. Additionally, Slippery Rock University’s doctoral degree in special education has been ranked one of the best 25 programs in the country for 2019 by CollegeValueOnline.com. This program was also ranked No. 7 in one of the 20 most affordable online doctoral degrees in special education programs in the country by AffordableSchools.net for 2019. SRU’s Special Education Department has been teaching online education for more than a decade and understands what working professionals need. Come and join our Special Education Doctoral Program cohort and begin realizing your dream.

Our Ed.D. in Special Education is convenient and offers a student-centered blend of online courses (synchronous and asynchronous). The program is cohort-based and can be completed in three years, by taking an average of approximately two classes each term.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS
Slippery Rock University’s Ed.D. in Special Education offers the following:

• A new cohort that begins every spring term
• The possibility to apply a maximum of 12 master’s degree credits towards the doctoral degree
• A competitive curriculum that focuses on special education, content learning, and leadership. The classes are designed to prepare future special education leaders to enter public schools, agencies, and non-profit organizations
• Experienced faculty with practical experience
