Guide to the Student Conduct Process
What you can expect during the student conduct process for non-sexual misconduct incidents.

Student is referred for an alleged violation of the Student Code of Conduct

Incident referrals can come from university police, borough or state police, University staff, students, or faculty.

Student receives a letter from Student Conduct via their SRU email, requesting to schedule an administrative hearing with an assigned hearing officer (a Student Conduct staff member)

The purpose of this meeting is to discuss information received in the referral and understand the student's perspective on the incident.

Student meets with their assigned hearing officer to discuss the incident and alleged violations.

During the meeting, students will have several options presented to them on how to proceed.

The hearing officer may withdraw or dismiss alleged charges based on the information presented in the referral and by the student.

The hearing officer and student determine a range of sanctions (consequences) and conditions to complete the sanctions.

Student accepts responsibility

The case moves to a formal hearing board if the hearing officer has sufficient evidence that a violation occurred.

Student does not accept responsibility

Following the administrative hearing, the student will receive a decision confirmation letter to their SRU email.

This letter details the violation(s) discussed, the outcome, and any sanctions and/or next steps (if applicable).

Possible sanctions may include, but are not limited to:
- Disciplinary Warning
- Educational Activities
- Alcohol/Other Drug Education
- Restriction of Privileges
- Disciplinary Probation
- Final Disciplinary Probation
- Suspension
